Death Accident, Coroner Thinks

Miss Sullavan Takes Overdose of Pills, Dies

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP)—Accident investigator said Friday, a few hours before going on stage as star of a new play. Authorities indicated she may have unintentionally taken an overdose of sleeping pills.

Miss Sullavan, 48, was found unconscious in her Hotel Taft room. She was dead on arrival at Grace New Haven Community Hospital.

The actress, nervous and upset had been under the care of a physician for two days. James J. Corrigan, New Haven County coroner, said her death might have resulted from an overdose of barbiturates but added: "I do not believe it was a suicide."

However, after receipt of an autopsy report today, Corrigan said he had not at this time ruled out the possibility of suicide.

The coroner said the autopsy had showed "a clinical picture consistent with barbiturate acid poisoning." He added that a similar condition could have been caused by some other element.

Before any definite finding can be made, Corrigan said, a study of the vital organs by the State Toxicological Laboratory in Hartford must be completed. He said he expects this report to be completed Monday or Tuesday.

Miss Sullavan had been visited by a physician early Friday and again in the afternoon. Her husband, Kenneth Wagg, spoke with her about 2 p.m.

A few hours later, he had to ask the hotel management to force open the door of her room when he found it fastened by a chain lock. Inside he could see her lying in bed, unable to hear him.

Detective Capt. William Holohan said Wagg told him Miss Sullavan wished she could get out of show business.

Wagg got a doctor for her after the Thursday night performance of "Sweet Love Remembered," which began a pre-Broadway try-out Monday at the Shubert theater.

Dr. Rafi Tofig said he found Miss Sullavan keyed-up and disturbed. He gave her an injection to help her relax, he said. She

East Palestine Mayor Makes Appointments

EAST PALESTINE — Mayor Robert Harding today announced the appointment of George McGuckin as safety service director and the re-appointment of Robert Hunston as city welfare director, effective Jan. 1.

McGuckin, who has been an engineer at the Municipal light plant for the past 15 years, succeeds Elmer Dishong. Dishong had been safety-service director here for the past 22 years. He will take over McGuckin's former position as engineer at the light plant.

McGuckin is married and has three daughters. He lives at 244 W. Martin St.

Hunston, who stays on as city welfare director, is a brother of County Commissioner Walter Hunston.

Russia Hints Arms Reduction

Premier Says Nation May 'Go It Alone'

MOSCOW (AP)—Nikita Khrushchev's hint that the Soviet Union might go it alone in cutting armed forces strength suggested today the opening move in a new maneuver to force the West's hand on disarmament.

The Soviet Premier told a New Year's reception "if the cold war exponents drag us into labyrinths of endless verbal discussions, should we adopt the way onto which they want to prod us?"

"Shouldn't we do some thinking for ourselves, reduce our armed forces unilaterally and entrust the defense of our borders to rockets?"

Khrushchev's declaration, sounded before foreign diplomats among the 1,500 guests at the Kremlin reception, was greeted cautiously in Washington.

But an initial reaction was that the Soviet leader's words may represent the opening move in an attempt to marshal world opinion and pressure the Western powers into accepting his pet disarmament proposal at the East-West talks opening in Geneva March 15.

The proposal, submitted to the United Nations by Khrushchev during his U.S. visit last year, calls for total disarmament within four years.

Khrushchev said in his New Year's Eve statement that "if our proposals are accepted we are ready to dissolve our army any time and all our military will welcome this decision."

Western leaders go along with Khrushchev's proposal in principle but maintain it is too vague on the crucial issue of controls.

They insist that any arms reductions must be guaranteed through a workable control and inspection system.

The Soviet line at past disarmament discussions has called for reductions first, then consideration of controls.

Both the United States and Britain are drafting their own proposals to lay before the 10-nation Geneva disarmament committee on which Communist nations will have numerical equality for the first time.

37 Crewmen Saved as U.S. Ship Breaks Up

Freighter Runs Aground on Reefs Near Singapore

SINGAPORE (AP)—The American freighter Valley Forge broke up today on treacherous reefs 50 miles southeast of Singapore. The ship's agents said all 37 aboard were believed safe.

The British minesweeper Fiskerton headed for Singapore with 22 crewmen picked up on an uninhabited island near the scene of the wreck. They had put out from the Valley Forge in a lifeboat.

Eight other crewmen from the 7,202-ton ship were rescued by a salvage tug that battled gales and mountainous seas to reach the scene.

In addition, the Indonesian government sent word that Capt. Peter F. Petrone "and his crew" were on Bintan Island, the largest in the group south of Singapore.

That might mean all six other crewmen who were with the captain when they abandoned ship in a lifeboat Friday morning were safe, a spokesman for the agents said.

The British navy said the 22 men aboard the Fiskerton included the Valley Forge's second officer, Charles Kidd of Baltimore, Md.

The navy also said it was keeping two other warships in the area in the event all survivors might not be accounted for by Sunday.

The Valley Forge, a Liberty ship built in 1943, is owned by the Peninsular Navigation Co. of New York.

The freighter was en route to Singapore with 10,000 tons of wheat. Agents here said the ship, valued at about $300,000 without cargo, is probably a complete loss.

The vessel ran aground off Mapor Island in Indonesian waters on New Year's Eve. First messages reported water was pouring into the engine room and holds.

The salvage tug Griper reached the area just as the vessel was beginning to break apart. A lifeboat carrying eight crewmen was tossed dangerously by high waves but managed to reach the tug.

Police Seek Aid In Tracking Priest's Killer

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—Police, short on clues and at a loss for a motive, appealed today for public aid in tracking the gunman who murdered a 38-year-old Roman Catholic priest.

The Rev. Vincent L. Belle, assistant pastor at Holy Cross Church, for 12 years, was ambushed Friday as he was about to start his car in a parish garage.

Police said the assailant slipped up to the open driver's door and fired three bullets point-blank from a .32-caliber pistol. Two entered the priest's side. The third shattered his left arm.

Apparently no one heard the shots. No gun or shells were found. Nothing in the garage was disturbed to indicate the priest surprised a burglar.

Police said the gunman might have once consulted the priest for guidance. Lists of recent escapees from mental institutions were being compiled.

"It looks like the work of a fanatic," said Dist. Atty. Carman Ball.

Father Belle was about to leave on house calls to give communion to ill parishioners.

It was first believed that he had suffered a heart attack. The bullet wounds were discovered by an undertaker. Death came so quickly there was no external bleeding.

"There's absolutely no robbery motive here," said Harry G. Klenk, chief of the police homicide bureau. He said the priest carried no cash.

Kennedy Announces He Will Seek Democratic Nomination

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. John F. Kennedy today formally stepped into the race for the Democratic presidential nomination.

The 42-year-old Massachusetts senator said he intends to go into several presidential primaries, beginning with the one in New Hampshire March 8.

Describing the presidency as "the most powerful office in the Free World," Kennedy's statement said leadership at this time is vital in the life of the American people.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.) called a news conference today with all advance signs pointing to a formal statement that he is seeking the Democratic presidential nomination.

That would make official what has been no secret for nearly two years — that he will battle in the primaries and at the Los Angeles convention for the prize.

For Kennedy, formal entry into the race apparently marks the final intensive stage of campaign that has carried him into nearly every state and has involved him in several controversies.

Revolve About Religion

Some of these revolve about the 42-year-old senator's Roman Catholic religion. Others stem from his activity in connection with Congress' passage last year of compromise labor control legislation.

He helped push through a bill which organized labor contended would seriously handicap it, and which anti-labor forces said didn't go far enough to clean up abuses.

By all the political signs, Kennedy is the front runner for a nomination for which Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.) announced Wednesday and which Adlai E. Stevenson, Senate Democratic leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas and Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo.) also may seek.

But even Kennedy's ardent supporters concede he hasn't in sight now the 761 votes he would need to win the nomination at the July 11 convention in Los Angeles.

Because of this the Massachusetts senator is expected to make wide ranging forays into presidential primaries. He has been unable to lure any of his prospective opponents into his New England stronghold and apparently will run alone on the Democratic ticket in New Hampshire's March 8 Democratic primary.

Mayor Cranmer's Proposal

Citizens Committee On Income Tax Asked

Mayor Dean B. Cranmer said Friday following his election Nov. 6, said:

"Except for the private poll advertisement asking for an expression from Mr. John Q. Public, which poll indicated 93 per cent against passing the income tax now, no one has suggested that the general public be consulted and encouraged to advise council of their opinions.

"As the business organizations, which will compose the committee created by council, did not elect me Mayor and as I owe my election to the average citizen and as I will have to either sign or veto council's action, I have decided to create a Mayor's Committee on Income Tax composed of average citizens.

"I am going to invite a former local chairman of the Democratic party, John Taylor; a former local chairman of the Republican Party, Walter J. Hunston, and a former independent candidate for mayor, Lloyd Gordon, to be equal co-chairmen to organize this group.

"I am going to ask them to organize this citizen committee through the precinct committees of both local political parties. If a precinct committeemen will not serve then we will ask a voter

Mother Who Beat Child Faces Charge

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (AP)—A 16-year-old girl, covered with welts and bruises from her head to her ankles, was being treated in Middletown Hospital today while authorities prepared to file charges of child abuse and neglect against her 21-year-old mother.

The child is Linda Carol Gumm and her mother is Mrs. Arbutus Gumm.

Jess Dennis, chief investigator in the sheriff's office, said charges of child abuse and contributing to delinquency also would be filed against Denny Lawson, 23, who, Dennis said, had been living with Mrs. Gumm.

The child's plight was discovered Friday when Mrs. Gumm had a neighbor call an ambulance. The child was bleeding from the ears.

Dennis said Mrs. Gumm first said she had dropped the child while carrying her. Later, after being taken into custody, she admitted whipping the child twice with a belt last Tuesday, Dennis asserted.

"It is the worst beating I have seen in a long time," Dennis said.

Doctors at the hospital said the girl also may have a concussion. They said she also is suffering from malnutrition.

Mrs. Gumm and her husband, Bernard, are separated. Dennis said she first told him she had obtained a Mexican divorce from her husband and that she had married Lawson. He said she later admitted that was false.

Mason Is Candidate For County Commissioner

Jonathan C. Mason of East Liverpool, a Republican, announced today he would be a candidate for county commissioner at the May primaries.

Mr. Mason served one term as state senator, 1947-48, but has never held a county office. He is employed in the transportation department at the Crucible Steel Co. in Midland.

Salem Woman Killed In Crash On Lisbon Road

Mrs. Myron Grama Is Victim; Warren Man Killed on Rt. 7

Columbiana and Mahoning Counties went one day in 1960 without a traffic fatality but both counties were charged with one death each after separate traffic accidents this morning.

A Salem woman was fatally injured in a car-truck collision on the Lisbon Road, and a Warren man was killed in a one-car mishap on Route 7 near North Lima.

The victims are:

Mrs. Myron Grama, 69, of 727 Jennings Ave.

Ward Cutlip, 23, of Warren.

Mrs. Grama, the former Anna Vacar, was riding alone, but three other men riding with Cutlip were injured.

The Salem woman was pronounced dead on arrival at Salem City Hospital after the car she was driving crashed head-on into a tractor-trailer truck at 9:18 a.m. on the Route 45 Lisbon Road, four and one-half miles north of Lisbon near Long's Crossing.

The Columbiana County Highway Patrol said Mrs. Grama apparently drove left of center into the path of the truck. The driver of the truck, David Grubb, of RD 1, East Rochester, was not injured, according to the patrol. There were no passengers in either vehicle.

The accident is still under investigation.

Pinned Under Car

Cutlip was killed at 5:45 a.m. when the car in which he was riding left Route 7 one mile north of North Lima and overturned, pinning the victim underneath.

The Mahoning County Highway Patrol reported that the car, driven by Berlin Armentrout, 27, of 14 Willis St., Youngstown, was traveling south on Route 7 when it failed to negotiate a curve, hit a utility pole and rolled end over end. When the car quit rolling, the victim was found pinned underneath, the patrol said.

The driver and two other passengers, Charles Brooks, 42, of Youngstown, and Clayton Cutler, 21, of Medina, received lacerations and abrasions of the body. They are in Youngstown South Side Hospital.

Cutlip, who was married and lived at 821 Terra Alta NE in Warren, died of a fractured skull. He was employed at the Grinnell Corp. in Warren.

The Patrol is still investigating the accident.

The Doctor Says

By HAROLD THOMAS HYMAN, M.D.

Various Causes Produce Insomnia

In a previous column, I wrote that you should hesitate to take sleeping pills.

Dr. H. T. Hyman

As in dealing with all other medical problems, the prime cause of sleeplessness is the cause, and elimination or neutralization of that cause.

Here are some of the commoner causes for sleeplessness which any observant and intelligent person can get rid of:

1. Overheating or excessive chilling of the bedroom.
2. Poor ventilation of the bedroom with resultant stuffiness of the nose.
3. Undue light or noise. If not preventable, lessened by use of eyeshade or ear plugs.
4. Excessively hard or excessively soft mattress. In the latter case, corrected by bedboard between the spring and mattress.
5. Too many or too few pillows. Former cause backache and neck strain; latter, difficult breathing, especially if nose is stuffy.

6. Too many or too few bed clothes. Former results in perspiration and later chilling when coverings are kicked off; latter, chilliness preventing relaxation.

7. Too much or too little activity before retiring. Former may be due to stimulation of exciting movie, TV program, card game or conversation; latter to listless, boring evening during which you drowsed or even napped.

8. Fullness or emptiness of stomach. Former due to retiring shortly after meal or snack; latter to hunger, especially in the person with ulcer symptoms.

9. Drug stimulation from doses of thyroid, appetite killers, nose drops, caffeinated beverage, or alcoholic drinks like brandy that often produce initial drowsiness and later excitation. In hospital practice, from late reaction to drugs of the morphine series.

10. Exposure to industrial stimuli while on the job. Especially lead, mercury, tetraethyl lead (garage employees and men at filling stations).

11. Restlessness or cramps of leg muscles. Sometimes relieved by wearing long woolen undergarments, stockings or bed socks.

12. And finally, if you are a doctor, worrying about all of the foregoing.

Canton Council Group Walks Out, Threatens Court Action

CANTON, Ohio (AP) — Democrats are threatening court action after walking out of a turbulent City Council meeting Friday.

Walking out were six Democrats, plus one independent who has said he will vote with the Democrats in filling a vacant council seat. Who fills that seat will determine who controls the body.

The seven Republicans promptly selected a Republican lawyer, Donald R. Ramsayer, to fill the seat left vacant by the recent death of Anthony Rossetti, a Democrat.

Condemned Men Brawl In Prison Death Row

SAN QUENTIN, Calif. (AP) — Officials of this northern California penitentiary were to decide today how to punish six condemned men — including Caryl Chessman — for a New Year's Day brawl on death row.

The fight broke out after the prison's 24 death row inmates were admitted to their recreation room to watch holiday happenings on television. They had just tuned in the Rose Bowl parade.

James Merkouris, 44-year-old Los Angeles killer of two, emerged from his cell and began yelling and swinging at other inmates. Louis Nelson, prison disciplinary officer, said Manuel Chavez, 27, hit Merkouris with a wooden stool, whereupon Merkouris dashed the television set to pieces on the floor.

Chessman, death row author sentenced to die Feb. 19, knocked Merkouris down and straddled his chest. The four others, Chavez, Clyde Bates, 19; Marion Linden, 45; and Donald L. Cash, 32, pummeled Merkouris.

Guards restored order and put the six back in their cells.

Mediation Board Has Ruled In 10,000 Cases Involving Jews

By TOM HENSHAW

NEW YORK (AP) — The couple stood before the judges uneasily. They were in their 60s; married a couple of years. He was glum and bitter. She seethed with indignation.

The problem was money. Each had brought a small sum into the marriage. Yet neither would trust the other with it. Each thought the other should pay for his or her own living and medical expenses.

It was clearly a case for the Jewish Conciliation Board of America, one of the few religious organizations in the country whose judicial decisions are binding by law under New York State courts.

The conciliation board sits weekly in an upstairs room of the Jewish Educational Alliance on New York's Lower East Side.

The judges are a rabbi, a lawyer and a businessman. There are no lawyers to speak for plaintiff or defendant. There are no witnesses called.

In 40 years, the board has meted out justice with crisp dispatch in more than 10,000 civil cases involving Jews, many of which could have wound up on the already clogged state dockets.

The key word is justice. "In our view, justice must be more than just the settlement of a dispute by the application of the law," says Rabbi Israel Goldstein, the president of the board.

Hence no lawyers to bring technical points. There is a lot of impromptu heart-to-heart talk between judge, defendant and plaintiff — who sometimes turns out to be codefendant, too.

The conciliation board was founded during the days of large Jewish immigrations from Europe, no English and were confused by even the simplest problems arising in a new land.

A good deal of the board's hearings are still conducted in Yiddish. "Many of our people express themselves better in Yiddish," explains Mrs. Ruth Richman, who succeeded her late husband as executive secretary of the board.

Some cases are referred to the board by regular courts or other public agencies. But most start with a complaint registered at the board's headquarters on lower Broadway.

Industry Appreciation

Sometimes in this highly competitive city-by-city campaign to attract new industries, civic leaders, and the general public as well, lose sight of what already is on the home scene.

Salem is typical. The community has a generous sprinkling of diversified industries, some large and others small. These plants which provide employment to hundreds of workers and manufacture goods at a profit so that they can exist, are the backbone of our city.

It's not that new industries aren't wanted or needed. They are. New factories can be the means of greater city growth and other accomplishments, but we need to take stock occasionally of our possessions and share a deeper sense of appreciation for the industries Salem already has.

A year-end survey of local factories, published in yesterday's News, listed encouraging reports from such factories as the American-Standard Corporation, the Eljer Division of the Murray Corporation, E. W. Bliss Company, the Deming Company, Electric Furnace and the Hunt Valve Co. There were others.

Salem is fortunate, indeed, that these major concerns have their operations here.

Industry appreciation seems to be a big item that too often we overlook.

Turning One Cheek At a Time

Remembering what happened in the presidential campaign of 1956 when Adlai Stevenson dropped an H-bomb into presidential politics, we can be sure that sometime in 1960 there will be agitation of the same issue.

The White House decision to continue the ban on nuclear testing that expires in 1959 into 1960 on a day-to-day basis practically insures that an issue will be made of this delicate question.

The most delicate thing about the issue is the fact so many Americans are able to persuade themselves that nuclear testing could be banned by unilateral action. This amounts to saying to their government that it should do something in the name of faith that no government could afford to do in the name of security.

These trusting citizens even can turn their mental tables against the United States while holding fast to blind faith in the Soviet Union when challenged to rationalize their position. They have convinced themselves that nuclear testing is an absolute wrong, to be judged as such without regard to what the Soviet Union might choose to do that might make resumption of nuclear testing an absolute necessity.

They refuse to think of the possibility the Soviet Union might not be the only place where nuclear testing would be carried on; that its ally Red China might become interested in it, too, without being subject to any agreements or controls.

They think of the problem as something that can be dealt with by the same kind of arbitrary decisions they are fond of making about everything that comes within their purview. Having convinced themselves that nuclear testing is harmful to human beings, they are in favor of eliminating it as if it were a suspected cranberry or a mortal sin.

Two facts remain, nevertheless, and the White House must consider both of them.

The first is that the United States was the first to propose international control of nuclear fission based on international inspection and never found any favor for its plan in the Kremlin.

The second is that nuclear test bans are not imperative, in the sense that all competent opinion says so. All things considered, it would be better if the possibility of danger from nuclear testing could be eliminated entirely. But—all things considered—the danger cannot be eliminated entirely unless the United States can get an agreement with other governments that would be enforceable and fool-proof.

It is only an agreeable illusion that the world can be made over by unilateral resolution. The United States has tried that a few times by setting good examples with disarmament projects that left it virtually defenseless while realistic governments were piling up armaments in efforts to conquer the world.

Science Is Not Everything

Wallace R. Brode's farewell address as retiring president of the American Association for the Advancement of Science offers a glimmer of hope that this nation may soon fight its way out of the confusion that has hampered its official scientific policy.

He told his colleagues that major political decisions are necessary to keep science projects in proper perspective with U.S. economic, political, educational and social needs.

This is a reversal of the customary view of the scientist, who is so pre-occupied with visions of technological progress that he advocates crash programs for this or that project without a thought for other important factors of our national life.

Administration officials charged with keeping the United States economically sound, educationally in step and socially healthy are aware of the hazards in scientific crash programs.

But they are subjected to so many political pressures—domestic and international—that only the strongest survive the inclination to suppress their better judgment and face, instead, the castigation that would follow suggestions for keeping scientific work in line. Too few of them are that strong. The weaker ones take the easiest way out—they pass the buck. They want somebody else to take responsibility for making decisions they know should be made.

Mr. Brode's suggested solution is not new, but it is still timely: the creation of a cabinet level department of science to accept the responsibility of formulating scientific policy and simultaneously to share responsibility with the rest of the administration for keeping scientific policy intelligently related to economics, education, health and social welfare.

The United States has had the experience of pouring billions into science programs without seeming to make headway. One reason is that too many scientists are unable to see any other road but the one they travel and too many politicians are willing to ignore all other roads for the sake of gathering more votes.

The need is for appointed experts who do not wear blinders but have the broad vision to draw coordinated policy and the integrity and stamina to insist on pursuing it.

The public awareness displayed by Mr. Brode will help to accomplish that.

Once Over

Russia has agreed to do something about settling their lend-lease debt to the United States. These three agreements will first have to be made by the Soviet: (1) That the U.S. played any part in the war; (2) that, if so, American forces were of any help in saving Russia's neck; (3) that "gratitude," "debt" and "pledge," are not dirty words. Russia got 11 billion in supplies alone from Uncle Sam, but may still claim it remembers nothing except one tank, two sailors' uniforms, and a toy pistol.

A BIG HOUSING DEVELOPMENT is planned for the old Polo Grounds in New York. The tenant who has a room or apartment directly over the home plate will be disturbed by cries of "You're out."

A bedroom where John McGraw once stood will see the ghostly figure of the most fiery manager in history and hear plenty of colorful language.

The spirits of some of the greatest figures in baseball will be heard, house by house, we think.

How about a good name for the development? Mathewson Manors, Hassle Heights, Swat Acres, or Casa McGraw?

It was at the Polo Grounds that the original Harry Stevens sold the first all-hot and went on to expand into one of the biggest catering enterprises on earth. Maybe somebody will tab the housing site: Hot Dogpatch.

LOOKING BACK over the Yuletide, the highlights on the airwaves seem to us to have been Marian Anderson in singing, "He Holds the Whole World in His Hands," and (believe it or not) the simple beauty of a 16-year-old movie, "Going My Way," on Christmas afternoon. . . . Would you ever suspect that the folks you see in paper hats, tooting horns and developing a case of super hiccupps were the same ones who a week back were deep in reverence for the Holy Night, peace on earth, and the love of little children?

Heavyweight championship fight group includes former assistant attorney general, four lawyers, an insurance man, a travel agent, and Roy Cohn, a man who lost a close decision to the U.S. Army in the McCarthy hearings. It has everybody except an insecticide expert, a magician, a tough Marine sergeant, and an FBI agent, all of which it needs most in the present state of the fight game.

Bill Rosenzohn, the boy promoter, sold out his rights to keep in hot water. Vincent Velella disposed of his rights to neglect his law business for the perils of promotion. To your corners, lawyers, businessmen, brokers, investigatory official and tourist agencies. . . and come out fighting!

Economic Growth Policy

By PETER EDSON

Trying to get European members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization to pay a larger share of common defense costs is about as easy as untangling a barrel of electric eels.

This was the principal new business before the NATO Council of Ministers December meeting in Paris.

U.S. Secretary of state Christian A. Herter Jr. presented American plans for solving this problem. But it will take months and probably years to shift more of the costs of Europe's military preparedness back to Europe.

The first obstacle is that NATO has no total budget. Nobody has the slightest idea what it costs. Each of the 15 member countries has its own national defense budget, but his covers all costs at home and overseas. What to charge to NATO can't be calculated.

JUST AS A GUIDE, and on an expenditure basis, the U.S. defense budget for fiscal 1959 was 41 billion.

The United States gave 875 million dollars' worth of arms aid to NATO countries in fiscal 1959, but this does not include cost of U.S. troops in Europe or special accounts below.

For the other NATO countries, calendar year 1958, the national defense expenditures in millions of U.S. dollar equivalents were: Britain 4,800, France 3,800, Canada 1,800, Germany 1,800, Italy 1,000, Turkey 510, Netherlands 450, Belgium-Luxembourg 380, Greece 155, Norway 145, Denmark 140, Portugal 85 and Iceland nothing.

There are a few shared accounts like maintaining NATO Council headquarters in Paris and Gen. Lauris Norstad's Supreme Headquarters, Allied Command in Europe—SHAPE. The total cost of these is 27.5 million dollars this year. The United States pays 24 per cent, or 6.6 million dollars.

THE ONLY NATO, account of any size is for "Infrastructure," the system of airfields, pipelines, communication networks and similar facilities used by all 15 NATO countries.

The cost of Infrastructure over the 10 years that NATO has been in business is one billion dollars in round numbers. Again nobody seems to have exact figures.

The U.S. share on the first Infrastructure "slice" in 1951 was 48 per cent, but it has been coming down slightly. Slice XI—agreed to in Paris in 1957 and the last one for which figures are available—shows the U.S. share 36.9 per cent. But this cut was caused more by Germany's admission to NATO in 1955 than by any deliberate easing of the American taxpayers' share of North Atlantic defenses.

On Slice XI the percentage division of infrastructure was, in round numbers Germany 14, France 12, Britain 10, Canada 6, Italy 5, Belgium and Netherlands 4 apiece, Norway and Denmark over 2 apiece, Turkey over 1, Greece and Portugal under one, Iceland zero. This is an approximate basis on which NATO countries may begin to figure over again their fair cost shares.

This is only one phase of the NATO cost-sharing problem, however. In the last few years the NATO Council has been trying to make the organization something more than a mere military alliance. Europe wants it to co-operate in the fields of politics, economics, scientific research, air traffic control, civil emergency planning and cultural development.

In these fields, European countries not in NATO have a role. This raises the probability that NATO is not the right organization to handle or plan for a more unified Europe.

THE SAME THING applies to the problem of greater European sharing in the costs of aid to underdeveloped countries. Several NATO members still have their former colonies to support and so feel that they cannot take on more aid to other underdeveloped countries.

But countries like Sweden and Switzerland, not in NATO, could contribute. And as the Germans have pointed out, there must be centralized direction of aid programs. Otherwise they will become competitive and hopelessly confused.

It is not felt that the United Nations is the organization to do this regional co-ordination. There is a natural reluctance to form still more international agencies. But a plan which would utilize existing agencies like the World Bank, giving them new authority, might solve the problem. The new U.S. plan will be along this line.

So They Say

I love England and honor the queen, but the bureaucrats who rule the land have driven me away. I am a refugee from the welfare state and a fugitive from the effects of applied socialism. . . . (In the United States) they have the grace to let me unbutton my own shirt before they take it off me.

—Author Gerald Kersh, newly naturalized U.S. citizen.

He's stood the trip better than any one of us.

—Presidential press secretary James C. Hagerty, on Ike's 11-nation peace tour.

Steel, Inflation

By PETER EDSON

If You're Confused, You Have Company

Outcome of the steel wage dispute has been widely heralded as the U.S. business pace-setter for 1960.

But as long as the cost-of-living index jumps no more than one-tenth of 1 per cent—as it did last month—few Washington officials seem likely to get excited about inflation.

This can be stated categorically, regardless of the current company-by-company negotiations, the results of the Jan. 11 election on management's last offer, or possible resumption of the strike at the end of the 80-day cooloff, Jan. 26.

The situation is likely to be the same even if the companies put through a further price increase, as hinted by Republic Steel Chairman Charles M. White.

Eisenhower administration policy on these matters will probably be revealed in the President's economic report to Congress, early in January. But there is still some debate among administration economic advisers on the party line.

JUST BEFORE the President went on his overseas good-will mission, he said that if steel labor and management could not agree, the government could not sit idly on its hands.

This idea has now been taken up by some Democrats—including even Adlai Stevenson—to advocate new legislation requiring compulsory arbitration in public-interest strikes.

This is the issue on which administration advisers choose up sides. Those for it say the government must intervene to save the economy. Those against it say it would be disastrous for the government to get involved at all.

Principal argument of the "cons" is that it is a mistake to concentrate on any one specific wage or price adjustment and label it as inflationary or noninflationary.

The role of the Cabinet Committee on Price Stability for Economic Growth is interesting in this debate. This group includes Secretaries of Treasury Anderson, Agriculture Benson, Commerce Mueller, Labor Mitchell and Postmaster General Summerfield under the chairmanship of Vice President Nixon. At its inception a year ago it was hailed as a study group to head off inflation. But this goal is now minimized.

Last August it announced that a series of five statements would be issued to spell out the facts of economic life for the American people. Only three have come out. Work on the other two has been going on for months. But there is no prospect anything more will be issued for another month at least.

SOME OF THE material drafted for these papers has been used in speeches by Dean W. Allen Wallis of University of Chicago. He is listed as vice-chairman of the Nixon committee, but also as a special assistant to the President.

His recent speeches have dealt with "Economic Growth" and "Wages, Productivity and Prices." His view is that the average level of prices can be stable only if the average level of earnings is reasonably in line with productivity.

Wallis says it does not follow that the levels of prices, wages and productivity in any one industry—the steel industry, for example—must bear the same relationship to the average of all price, wage and productivity levels. Wide variations are natural, and only over-all averages count.

This Cabinet committee has a close relationship to the Council of Economic Advisers which prepares the President's annual economic report to Congress. Council Chairman Raymond J. Saulnier is also a member of the Cabinet committee.

SOME OF THE paper work being done for the Cabinet committee, instead of being issued directly, is obviously being used to prepare the new economic policy statements.

Nobody knows when they're going to be issued. They may come out as a series of reports, or they may come out in one comprehensive wrap-up. They may be circulated only on a restricted basis inside the administration, or they may be included in the council's January report.

The only obvious fact is that the great brains are having a little trouble making up their minds, not only on what to say, but also on how and where to say it.

Neighbors In Orbit

By JERRY BENNETT

People who man the first space stations will have to be experts in togetherness. The success of interplanetary missions and possibly survival will depend on it.

This is the expert opinion of Jiri Nehnevajsa, Columbia University sociologist and member of the American Rocket Society. Studying the necessity of loving thy neighbor while in orbit has become one of his specialties.

He explains that many scientists have overlooked the importance of sociology—that's the study of how people react to other people—in plans for space travel. But within this field, he says, lie some of the space age's most complicated headaches.

These problems won't bother the Project Mercury astronauts since each one will be spinning around the earth by himself. It's when two or more humans leave the atmosphere together for a long time that Dr. Nehnevajsa foresees trouble. He explains:

"They will have to adjust not only to the conditions of space but to each other."

"LITTLE THINGS like a person's characteristic movements—even the pitch of his voice—could eventually get on somebody's nerves. Over a long period of time they could become unbearable."

The danger of quirks becoming crises is only one reason for the importance of celestial togetherness. Even if no one has any irritating habits, chances of social tension infecting the whole crew are plentiful.

One problem, Dr. Nehnevajsa predicts, will arise from the space station's social class structure. On board will be physicists, chemists and astronomers—the guys who'll get all the glory. The rest of the crew will do supply and maintenance chores.

Within time the scientists

Looking Backward

5 YEARS AGO — McMiltv's enjoyed a Christmas party recently in the home of Jean Yarian.

10 YEARS AGO — Mr. and Mrs. Rex Hundertmark and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Little entertained 20 friends at a bow tie party New Year's Eve.

25 YEARS AGO — The second annual dinner party of the Lion Tamers Club was held Monday, with Wade Loop as toastmaster.

40 YEARS AGO — Members of the R.S. Circle gathered at the home of Mrs. F. Harding Friday.

The News invites letters from its readers on all important current topics, but the letters should be brief, not to exceed 300 words and they must bear the signature and address of the writer to insure publication. Unsigned letters can not be published.

might start looking down their noses at the caretaker group. This could lead to jealousy and hard feelings.

DR. NEHNEVAJSA believes one solution would be to have them all live together. This would prevent snobbery and inferiority complexes from starting.

Another solution would be to train each crew member to perform more than one duty so he could rotate jobs. Thus, a man who started out in the supply room would have the satisfaction of knowing that eventually he could measure gamma rays.

One major drawback to this is that the physicist, in turn, might become disgruntled when he was relieved of his first love and had to inventory the canned goods. Another problem it would pose is that no one would be indispensable. This could lead to deep feelings of insecurity, Dr. Nehnevajsa says.

For example, a communications expert might worry: "If I don't measure up they'll take me off the radio and send me to the supply room. I'll never get to work the radio again. Sooner or later they'll fire me back to earth."

Thus, he might get the jitters and flub his job. And goofing up in outer space could have disastrous results for everybody.

ANOTHER HEADACHE in manning space stations will be "Who's going to be boss?" Dr. Nehnevajsa explains that scientists are usually a pretty independent group. They feel they can't do good work when under rigid authority. Yet, survival on a space station will call for some sort of government.

Dr. Nehnevajsa believes finding a man who can give orders and still preserve togetherness poses quite a problem.

Sociologists and psychologists have started devising tests to use in picking the right men for space station duty. The tests measure how much sympathy you have for your fellow man.

One togetherness experiment will soon begin at the Aerospace Medical Center in San Antonio, Tex. Two men will be sealed inside a space cabin for a month. Doctors will study their reactions via a closed circuit television hook-up.

WHY DO WE SING IN CHURCH?

THE CHURCH FOR ALL ... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

| Day       | Book       | Chapter | Verses |
|-----------|------------|---------|--------|
| Sunday    | Psalms     | 100     | 1-5    |
| Monday    | Joshua     | 24      | 14     |
| Tuesday   | Psalms     | 34      | 1-4    |
| Wednesday | Psalms     | 86      | 9-11   |
| Thursday  | Ephesians  | 5       | 19-20  |
| Friday    | Colossians | 3       | 15-16  |
| Saturday  | Revelation | 7       | 9-10   |

Most of us take hymns for granted—until the eager mind of a child asks, "Why do we sing in Church?" And then we have to grope for the right answer...

It isn't that God prefers singing to other kinds of worship. We know He is concerned with sincerity, not melody.

And we don't sing simply because we are happy. In trouble and sorrow we have turned to a favorite hymn for strength.

Nor do we sing in Church merely because we like to sing. That would seem a self-centered sort of worship.

We sing because sacred music has beauty, feeling, reverence. It is a fitting expression of our faith in God. And we sing because the message of a hymn reaches the soul of the singer and the heart of his neighbor—as well as the throne of God.

Syracuse Stages 23-14 Win Over Texas In Cotton Bowl

LSU Defeated By Mississippi

Washington, Georgia Also Win Bowl Tilts

By The Associated Press

Syracuse accepted college football's national championship trophy at halftime in the Cotton Bowl, then showed why they won it with a clear-cut 23-14 victory over Texas.

But the mighty Orange, top-ranked and unbeaten in 11 games, had to share New Year's Day bowl honors with shutout victors Mississippi and Georgia and the upset-hungry Huskies of Washington.

Sophomore Ernie Davis scored 16 points in the Syracuse victory, the eastern school's first in four bowl tries.

Mississippi rode the passing of Bobby Franklin and Jake Gibbs to a surprisingly simple 21-0 revenge victory over Louisiana State in the Sugar Bowl.

Georgia, with Francis Tarkenton doing the passing, also moved through the air for its 14-0 Orange Bowl triumph over Missouri.

Washington, a 7-point underdog, won in the Rose Bowl for the first time in five attempts by stunning Big Ten champion Wisconsin 44-8 on the passing of All-America Bob Schloredt and the running and kicking of George Fleming.

In an all-Texas bowl, host Prairie View A&M routed Wiley 47-10 at Houston. In the Tangerine Bowl, a night game at Orlando, Fla., Middle Tennessee defeated Presbyterian 21-12. A total of 256,980 fans saw the six games. Another 13,500 were in the Sun Bowl Thursday when New Mexico State defeated North Texas State, 28-8.

The amateur side of the post-season festivities finished up today with the Gator Bowl at Jacksonville, Fla., the East-West Shrine Shrine game at San Francisco and the All-American Bowl at Tucson, Ariz. The latter two battles were between all-star teams, while in the Gator Bowl, Arkansas (8-2), which split the Southwest Conference title with Texas and TCU, rated even with Georgia Tech (6-4) of the Southeastern Conference.

The Cotton Bowl at Dallas paired the nation's No. 1 and No. 4 teams in a game marred by temperamental outbursts by players of both teams. The New Orleans Sugar Bowl was a rematch of the famed mid-season battle in which LSU (No. 3) whipped Mississippi (No. 2) by a 7-3 score on an 89-yard punt return by All-America halfback Billy Cannon.

But Friday Cannon was held to eight yards in six carries by Ole Miss.

Felix McKnight of the Cotton Bowl Selection Committee presented The Associated Press Trophy, symbolic of the national title, to Syracuse, and the swift Davis put the extra emphasis on it as he scored two touchdowns and a pair of two-point conversions.

Mississippi's Gibbs sent the Rebels ahead 7-0 with a 43-yard TD pass to halfback Cowboy Woodruff just before halftime. Then Franklin took over after intermission, throwing 18- and 9-yard scoring passes to end Larry Grantham and halfback George Blair.

Quarterback Tarkenton tossed TD passes in the first and third period for Georgia's Southeastern Conference champions. He hit end Bill McKenny for 29 yards, then Aaron Box for 33.

Schloredt, the one-eyed quarterback who went from sub to All-America this season, guided the Washington attack that exploded for 17 points in the first quarter and by halftime had more points — 24 — than a West Coast team had ever scored in its bowl series with the Big Ten, dating back to 1947. The Big Ten lost only twice in that span — and both times it was Wisconsin.

Fleming, a 180-pound junior, stunned the Badgers with a 53-yard punt return for a touchdown, a 55-yard run that set up another TD, a 65-yard gain on a pass from Schloredt, a 36-yard field goal and five conversion kicks.

Washington's lighter, faster line completely outmaneuvered the heavier Wisconsin forwards and permitted only a second quarter four-yard TD by Tom Wisner. And that was set up by the passing of Dale Hackbart.

None of the big four winners ever trailed and only Texas, among the losers, managed to impress on the scoreboard.

Near the end of the first half players on both sides threw punches in a flare of tempers, but none were ejected.

Later, there were accusations by Syracuse players of racial name-calling by the Longhorns. Texas players denied they made any such remarks to Syracuse Negro players.

Clash Has Title Overtones

Bradley-St. Louis Contest Tonight Heads Cage Program

By The Associated Press

The serious business of deciding conference champions gets under way in earnest on the college basketball front tonight with at least two important games on the card.

The big one is at Peoria, Ill., where Bradley entertains St. Louis in a Missouri Valley clash that — even so early in the year — has title overtones.

These two clubs are the main pretenders to Cincinnati's league throne. The Bearcats already have beaten Bradley (7-1). In view of the fact that Bradley lost just two conference games all last season, a defeat could knock the Braves out of it.

Bradley — the only league team to beat Cincinnati last season — finished second to the Bearcats and St. Louis was third. A Bradley victory would not make the Bearcats and Big O Oscar Robertson unhappy. In that case, both their chief rivals would be beaten in league play.

St. Louis (8-2) is ranked No. 6 in the current Associated Press poll and Bradley is No. 9. Cincinnati (9-0), riding along at the top of the heap, has a non-league date with Dayton.

Two of the favorites for the Southeastern Conference crown — Georgia Tech and Kentucky — meet in Lexington. Only one league game has been played, so this is really the start of hostilities. Georgia Tech (8-1) is tenth-ranked and Kentucky (6-3) is No. 13.

Kentucky is the favorite for the title since defending champion Mississippi State has lost Bailey Howell. Auburn, which finished in a second-place tie with the Wildcats, goes against Mississippi State. This one might give a clue on whether Auburn can make a battle of it for the title. Vanderbilt, another strong contender, plays Tennessee.

The Big Ten also begins operations, with Indiana, No. 7 in the country and one of the favorites for the title, meeting Purdue in the top game. Iowa is at Minnesota and defending champion Michigan State is at Wisconsin.

The regular-season scramble on the West Coast gets under way. But there's no Pacific Coast Conference this time and the newly formed Big Five doesn't count as a league because it lacks the required six teams.

California, No. 3, and boasting a winning streak of 25 games, plays Southern Cal in the top attraction. The Trojans don't figure to be any problem.

The only important action Friday night was in the Pointsettia Bowl in Greenville, S.C., where The Citadel defeated Bucknell, 95-73, and Furman crushed Harvard, 87-69. The Citadel and Furman will meet for the championship tonight.

Big Ten Opens 1960 Cage Drive Today

By The Associated Press

The Big Ten—still a bit groggy from beatings suffered in various holiday tournaments — opens its 1960 basketball campaign today.

Indiana, the only team to win a tournament, is host to Purdue, Iowa is at Minnesota and Michigan State is at Wisconsin in a regionally televised matinee.

The Hoosiers, winners of the Blue Grass Tournament in Louisville, compiled an 8-1 non-conference record and remain favorites to win the championship. Purdue has a 5-4 mark.

Iowa (8-2) showed surprising strength in the New York Holiday Festival before bowing to Cincinnati and Oscar Robertson. The young Hawkeyes established themselves definite contenders. Minnesota, expected to be much stronger, compiled a 4-6 pre-conference record.

Defending champion Michigan State (5-2) might run into trouble against Wisconsin (3-6). Both Spartan defeats have occurred away from home.

Michigan (1-7) will be engaged in non-league activity against Miami of Ohio at Ann Arbor.

Ohio State, rated a contender along with Indiana, does not get into action until Monday night. The Buckeyes (7-2) take on Illinois (7-1). Illinois had been undefeated until it ran into California in the Los Angeles Classic.

Volleyball Loop To Resume Play

Two Top Squads To Meet Thursday

Action in the Adult Volleyball League will resume next week at the Memorial Building after a three-week layoff with a scheduled clash between the loop's two top clubs being the feature attraction.

League-leading Post Office with a 17-1 record will tangle on Thursday with runner-up Electric Furnace which has a 12-3 mark. The Furnace crew could move into first place by sweeping the three games on Thursday.

This will be the first meeting between the two top clubs. Furnace has dropped single games to Eljer Shipping, Bliss and Eljer Enamel. The Post Office's only loss came at the hand of Eljer Enamel its last time out. Enamel is sitting in third place with a 10-5 record.

Electric Furnace has three tune up games scheduled with Eljer Office on Monday before the show down battle with the Post Office. Eljer Office, the only outfit in the nine-team league still without a victory, is buried in the basement with an 0-15 record.

Gator Bowl Contest Is Rated Tossup

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Arkansas Coach Frank Broyles sent his Razorbacks out today with orders to beat Georgia Tech and shatter a football bowl game winning streak Broyles helped Tech build.

The scene: The 15th Gator Bowl game. And it was in this bowl three years ago that Georgia Tech won its sixth bowl game in successive season.

Broyles was an assistant to Tech Coach Bobby Dodd during those six bowl seasons and earlier he went to three bowls as a Tech player.

He now is head man at Arkansas and his ambition is to start a bowl winning streak of his own at the expense of his former coach and school.

The game is rated a tossup. The kickoff was set for 2:15 p.m. EST.

Adams Captures Scoring Title

Herron's First In Offense, Defense

Bob Adams of Industrial Mining turned in his two best games of the season this week to capture the first half scoring title in the city Class A basketball league.

Adams and Dean Nicholson of Herron Transfer went into the final two games of the season deadlocked at 131 points apiece. While the Herron's star was being held to a total of 20 points, Adams was splurging for 27 against Farmers Bank and 28 against Shaffer Ford.

The Industrial Mining ace wound up with 186 points for a nine-game average of 20.7. Nicholson averaged 16.7 points per game with his total of 151 markers.

ADAMS SCORED at least 20 points in each of his last six games. He was the only player in the league to average over 20 points per contest.

Dave Williams of Salem Stamping finished a close third in the scoring race with 149 points. Gene Kitzmiller of Industrial Mining was the number four man with 147 points.

Chuck Greiner finished in fifth place with 141 points, despite the fact that he played in only eight games. His Farmers Bank team won one of its games by forfeit.

Meissner's and Stamping each had three players to tally more than 100 points apiece. Passing the century mark for Meissner's were Wayne Walters, John Sturgeon and Bob Stallsmith. Stallsmith, however, picked up all but 35 of his points while playing for Birkhimer's.

BESIDES WILLIAMS, STAMPING

ing had George Burrier and Carson McNeely hitting over 100 points.

First half champion Herron Transfer posted both the best of marks among the 10 teams in the loop. They averaged 68.8 points per game while holding their opponents to 47.1.

Second round play will get underway at the Memorial Building on Monday. The winner of the round will clash with Herron's for the season's title. If Herron's repeats as second half champions, they will get the annual trophy without a playoff.

East Has Hefty Line For Shrine Contest

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The East line for today's 35th Shrine all star football game averages 227 pounds, but Coach Bill Meek contends his West squad isn't too concerned about all that beef.

"Nobody says we have to go through them," the Southern Methodist coach commented.

He had speedy Dick Bass from College of the Pacific, Larry Wilson of Utah and TCU's Jack Spikes to go around that mammoth forward wall and Don Meredith of SMU and Jim Walden of Wyoming to pass over it. The West line, by no means puny, averages 211.

Win by Royals Snaps Celtics' 17-Game Victory String

DETROIT (AP) — The Cincinnati Royals may have made good on a New Year's resolution Friday night, smashing the Boston Celtics' bid for a new National Basketball Assn. consecutive victory record.

The Celtics certainly had need for such a resolution, having been personal doormats for the fabulous Celts since last season. But the Cincinnati team gained revenge for 13 losses in a row to Boston by coming from behind for a 128-115 victory, snapping the Celtics' winning streak at 17 games.

The Celtics loss was the high spot of a double-header in which the host Detroit Pistons ended a six-game victory famine by trimming St. Louis 119-107. At Minneapolis, Syracuse pinned a four-point loss on the Lakers, 109-98.

For Boston, it was the first loss since Nov. 28. But Coach Red Auerbach will get his name in the record books twice anyway. He was coach of the Washington Capitols who set the standard at 17 straight victories in the 1946-47 season.

The Celtics started off with a rush. They held a 34-26 lead at the end of the first quarter as Bill Sharman hit for 17 points.

Then the Royals started to move, with league-leading scorer Jack Twyman and Phil Jordan showing the way.

Twyman was high man for the game with 40 points. Jordan posted 31.

Gene Shue dumped in 28 points as the Pistons gave Dick McGuire his first victory since becoming coach last Monday.

Syracuse, paced by George Yardley and Dolph Schayes, handled the slumping Lakers with ease.

McNeeley Scores TKO Over Logan

NEW YORK (AP) — Tom McNeeley, sturdy son of a Boston florist, still is an unbeaten young heavyweight with his first main event under his belt.

McNeeley got off a little easier than expected Friday night when he scored a technical knockout over George Logan of Boise, Idaho. Dr. Alexander Schiff of the New York State Athletic Commission, stopped the bout after he examined Logan's eye cut in his corner after the end of the fourth. Under New York rules that goes as a fourth-round TKO.

McNeeley, 196½, dropped Logan, 202, with a left hook in the first round. He said it was the first time he ever knocked anybody down with his left hand. Logan said it was the first time he had been on the deck.

McNeeley, 22, was pleased about the knockdown. "I've been working and working on that hook," he said in a Boston accent. "My right hand always has been my big punch."

Logan, 23, had lost only to Hurricane Jackson in 14 previous bouts. McNeeley now has won 16 straight and only two have gone the route.

LISBON — Fifteen county men are scheduled to leave Lisbon Tuesday for induction into the armed forces, according to Elaine Griffith, clerk of Draft Board 16. Start The
New Year Right
In A Home Of Your Own

I believe the pride of ownership is instilled in all of us, in some greater than in others.
The greatest tribute to that feeling is home ownership, mainly because the home is the foundation of the family, of all friendships and all happiness. Many people now own homes, but find them for some reason too large or too small for their present needs. These people we are in a position to help. Then there are those who are looking to purchase a home of their own possibly for the first time, but are not sure how to go about it properly. I can also help here. Due to my fine assortment of homes that are now on the market, I'm sure I can help you find the home of your choice, in the price range that you can afford, so what ever your needs,

No change in county personnel is expected, Gard said.

Flood Scare In Canada Caused by Ice Jam

MONTREAL (AP)—Flood waters backing up behind an ice jam in the Rivieres des Prairies dropped a foot in 24 hours, but riverbank communities expect no real relief for two or three days.

Bordeaux, a northern district of Montreal, was declared an emergency area Friday night and placed under civil defense. The army was called in to help in Bordeaux and the suburban communities of Laval des Rapides, L'Abord a Plouffe, and Riviere des Prairies.

Quebec hydro crews, beginning their fourth day of setting off dynamite charges in efforts to loosen the ice jam, said at least two more days will be needed to release the pent-up water. About 100 families have been evacuated from the communities since the waters rose suddenly Tuesday.

A Civil Defense staff under Maj. Maurice St. Pierre, Montreal District area commander, removed 11 families from Bordeaux today. Water still was 4 to 10 feet deep in low areas along the riverbanks.

14 Die In Ohio Road Mishaps

4-Year-Old Girl Accidentally Shot

By The Associated Press
Although safety officials predicted a higher highway death toll during the Christmas holiday weekend, the New Year's period appears headed to become the more deadly.

Since the dead count began at 6 p.m. Thursday, 14 persons have been reported killed on the state's roads. During the entire Christmas weekend only 17 persons died on the roads—and only six of them perished during the first 30 hours of the period.

Last year, in a New Year's weekend that was a day longer, the highway toll reached 17. The over-all count, however, was 30 which included two who died in fires and 11 others in miscellaneous accidents.

Two accidental deaths from other causes were reported, one in a shooting and the other in a fall. The fatalities:

Thursday Night

William S. Starr, of Haskins (Wood County), when his car ran off Ohio 64 two miles northwest of Bowling Green and rammed a utility pole.

Laure Lee Combs, 4, of North Baltimore, accidentally shot in the heart by an automatic pistol held by her father in their trailer home.

Alfred King, 62, and Mrs. James F. Goshorn, 38, both of Cleveland, struck by a car as they walked across a street in Cleveland.

Raymond Thornesberry, 16, of Niles, when the car in which he was a passenger failed to make a curve and rolled over on him 1 miles south of Warren.

Friday

Mrs. Marian Malechkar, about 60, of Cleveland, struck while crossing a street there by a car operated, police said, by an intoxicated driver.

Dennis Hohenbrink, 18, of near Ottawa, when his car hit a bridge abutment on U.S. 224 two miles west of Kalida.

Margaret Bryan, 28, of near Lancaster, when the car in which she was a passenger overturned on Ohio 79 south of Newark.

Louis G. Beck, 24, of Cincinnati, died when an automobile plunged off the C & O bridge over the Ohio River at Cincinnati and fell 75 feet into a parking lot along the river's edge.

Eugene Latham, 25, of near Batavia, when his motorcycle collided with an auto on Ohio 74, west of Newtown (Hamilton County).

Loren T. Atherton, 57, of Springfield, when the car his wife was driving went out of control and crashed on a road just west of Springfield.

Louis McMasters, 23, of Rt. 1, Forest (Hardin County), when his car left Ohio 53 four miles north of Kenton and hit a utility pole.

Magdalene Groscock, 44, Mansfield, of injuries received in a fall down the steps of a Mansfield night club.

Saturday

Ward Cutlip, 23, Warren, when a car in which he was riding left Ohio 7 and overturned, one mile south of North Lima (Mahoning County).

Robert R. Short Jr., 17, of Summit County, when his station wagon crashed into a pole near his home in Green Twp.

A woman identified tentatively as Mrs. Dorothy Parmeter, Athens, when her car skidded off U. S. 33 near Athens.

Western Reserve PTO Will Meet Monday

ELLSWORTH — The Western Reserve Local Parent-Teachers Organization will hold its first meeting of the year Monday at 8 p.m. at the school.

Dr. Ward Mowry, psychologist for the Mahoning County schools, will speak. Refreshments will be served.

PRICES RECEIVED AND PAID BY FARMERS

(INC. INTEREST, TAXES AND WAGES)

| Year | Prices Received | Prices Paid |
|------|-----------------|-------------|
| 1956 | 275             | 230         |
| 1957 | 285             | 235         |
| 1958 | 295             | 245         |
| 1959 | 300             | 240         |

(1910-1914 = 100)

GROWING PAINS — Economic ups and downs on the farm added up to bad news for farmers last year. After a good return in 1958, farmers' income dropped sharply. At the same time, prices they had to pay out continued their steady pull-away.

Kennedy

Unless there are unforeseen developments he will take on Humphrey in Wisconsin's April 5 voting. The whole field of aspirants — and some who claim they are not — apparently will be entered in Oregon's May 20 free-for-all, where a man's name can be entered without his consent.

Kennedy also may enter Ohio's May 3 primary, despite the current opposition of Gov. Michael V. DiSalle, himself a Catholic, who wants Ohio's favorite son designation. Sen. Frank Lausche (D-Ohio) also may seek favorite son status in the Ohio balloting.

Ship

The lifeboat with four crewmen returned to the Valley Forge and started back toward the tug with 18 more passengers but was unable to reach the Griper. It drifted out of sight in the towering waves.

Two British minesweepers and several British planes were routed to the area.

Another plane dropped food and clothing to the seven men stranded on the island.

The eight crewmen rescued by the tug were identified as Gerald W. Tucker, Portland, Ore.; First Asst. Engineer Vaughn Jankovich; Third Engineer Clarence J. Baker, Seattle, Wash.; John C. Hunt, Seattle; Alejandro Valenzuela, San Francisco; Delos Snead, Baltimore, Md.; William Datzko, Brooklyn, N. Y.; and Fred K. Lund, Portland, Ore.
